Jackson Library Named Literary Landmark

Jackson Library has been named a Literary Landmark by Friends of Libraries USA. The designation was awarded based on the Library's place in the literary heritage of the University and on collections of the papers and works of prominent faculty members, such as Randall Jarrell, and our students.

In bestowing the recognition, Friends of Libraries USA Executive Director Sandy Dolnick noted that Jackson Library's case for receiving the award was well-presented and that the award could have been granted on the basis of the Randall Jarrell Collection alone.

In order to celebrate this honor, Jackson Library, in partnership with Friends of the Library and the MFA Writing Program, will hold two public events during October. The theme of these two events will be "The Library and the Literary Community."

On October 17, noted author and literary critic Sven Birkerts will present a program on the place of libraries in the creation of a literary culture.

On October 29, when the Literary Landmark award is formally presented, authors and teachers associated with the University will participate in a panel discussion on the development of a literary community at UNCG and in Greensboro. Program participants will include Fred Chappell, Robert Morgan, Robert Watson, Emily Herring Wilson, and Lee Zacharias. Following the program, several area faculty and alumni authors will sign copies of their books at a reception in the Virginia Dare Room of the Alumni House.

Throughout October, the Special Collections Division will exhibit papers and other artifacts of faculty authors in the University's MFA Writing program.

Events in the celebration are supported by a LIVE! @ your library grant. LIVE! @ your library is an initiative of the American Library Association, with major support from the National Endowment for the Arts, Wallace-Reader's Digest Funds, and the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation.

Friends of the Library and Electronic Communications

Like Jackson Library itself, Friends of the Library increasingly uses web sites and e-mail to communicate with the membership. The Friends of the Library web site, containing information about our organization, programs and officers, may be found at <http://library.uncg.edu/depts/admin/fol.html>. Friends are encouraged to be E-Friends by signing up for free email notification about events and services at Jackson Library. To date, over 200 members have done so, thereby gaining access to timely news about Jackson Library without increasing the mailing expenses of the organization. To register, send an email to barry_miller@uncg.edu and ask for email notification about

Friends of the Library activities.

Some Friends have asked why they aren't able to access Jackson Library's over 150 electronic databases from their homes, as they can from the Library itself. Unfortunately, the Library's licenses for these resources limit access to students, faculty and staff of the University. For home and office use of electronic databases, we recommend that Friends living in North Carolina contact their local public library and obtain a free NC LIVE password, which will permit access to about 40 of the most popular electronic databases available at UNCG, including InfoTrac, ProQuest and EBSCO. NC LIVE is available through resources appropriated by the North Carolina state legislature. The NC LIVE agreement stipulates that academic libraries can only make NC LIVE resources available only to their faculty, staff and students.

Friends of the Library Book Sale October 16-18

The Friends of the Library Book Sale will be held October 16-18 in the Main Lobby of Jackson Library. Most prices will be $3 on the first day, $2 the second day, and $1 on the third day. Please come out, pick up some bargain books and help us raise money to support the collections and services of Jackson Library. Friends of the Library members who wish to donate books or help in setting up the sale should call Barry Miller at 256-0112 or Betty Morrow at 334-5781. Drop boxes for book donations may be found inside the front entrance to the Library.

From the Board of Directors

Your Board of Directors has been hard at work planning for the future of the UNCG Friends of the Library. Since their election last spring, the Board has conducted a series of brainstorming sessions with a goal of significantly increasing the membership of Friends of the Library during this year.

You will be receiving more information in upcoming months about the activities and projects of Friends of the Library, as well as about the significant impact Friends can make in the success of Jackson Library. Thank you for your membership and support.

Among Friends is a publication of Jackson Library designed to communicate with the Friends of the Library about programs, events, resources, and services. With it, we hope to keep you informed about new developments, staff accomplishments, and other news. Please send any comments, suggestions, or story ideas to Special Projects Librarian Barry Miller, who can be reached by email at barry_miller@uncg.edu or by phone at 336-256-0112.

Five hundred copies of this public document were printed at a cost of $137.80 or 27.6 cents per copy; the cost was underwritten by Friends of the Library.

UNCG Friends of the Library to Start New Book Discussion Group

Starting this fall, UNCG Friends of the Library have a new way to indulge their interest in books. A book discussion group for

Michael Parker

Friends members will have its initial meeting on September 23 with a discussion of Michael Parker's new novel, Towns Without Rivers. All Friends of the Library are invited. Light refreshments will be served, courtesy of Tate Street Coffee House. There is no additional charge beyond your membership. Directors Ann Russ and Beth Sheffield will lead the discussion, and author and UNCG faculty member Michael Parker has agreed to meet with the group, sign copies, and answer questions following the discussion. Copies of Towns Without Rivers and all books in the series are available for purchase from the UNCG bookstore. Discussion questions may be found on the Friends of the Library web page at <http://library.uncg.edu/depts/admin/fol/bookgroup.htm>

The theme for the year's discussions will be "American Journeys." The group will meet four times, always on Monday evenings at 7 pm in the Special Collections Division of Jackson Library. The discussion group will be limited to 35 persons, so please inform Barry Miller of your intent to participate by calling 256-0112 or by emailing him at barry_miller@uncg.edu. You may attend individual sessions or all, as you prefer.

Other sessions will be:

November 18, Undaunted Courage: Meriwether Lewis, Thomas Jefferson, and the Opening of the American West, by Stephen Ambrose.

Dr. Bob Gatten, Professor of Biology, Associate Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and nationally recognized expert on Lewis and Clark, will lead the discussion.

January 27 To be announced

March 17 To be announced

Special thanks to Board members Ann Russ and Beth Sheffield for their work in planning and organizing the book discussion group. Their work grew out of the brainstorming sessions of the Board of Directors earlier this year.

Hugh Morton to Address Friends of the Library at Annual Dinner April 2, 2003

By Ned Cline,

Member, Friends of the Library Board of Directors

If a picture is worth a thousand words, library friends attending next year's annual meeting will be filled with interesting and informative prose.

One of North Carolina's best-known public and civic leaders will present the program at the Friends of the Library dinner on April 1, 2003. Hugh Morton will tell the story of our state's history for the last 50 years through the lens of his camera.

Morton, well known and respected across this state and beyond for his diligent efforts on behalf of the environment, tourism promotion and photography, will be the featured speaker at the annual dinner in Cone Ballroom in the newly renovated Elliott University Center on the UNCG campus. Morton will present a visual history of North Carolina through photographs that he has been producing for more than a half century. His photographs and presentation will cover politics, university development, sports, and the environment. UNC Press will publish a collection of his photographs next fall. The presentation at the Friends dinner will provide a preview of this forthcoming book.

Morton, for decades a force for good in North Carolina, is owner and developer of Grandfather Mountain and was the driving force behind restoration and public display of the Battleship North Carolina at Wilmington. He has been one of this state's longest and most dedicated environmentalists and civic promoters.

Millionth Volume and Beyond Campaign Raises over $13,000

The faculty and staff of Jackson Library, as well as your Board of Directors, wish to extend thanks to all who contributed to the recent campaign to celebrate the acquisition of the one millionth print volume for UNCG, a first edition of William Blake's Illustrations of the Book of Job. The Friends of the Library provided major support for the achievement of this milestone, the celebration of which included a series of seven different events.

A list of the donors may be found on page 4, and a virtual exhibit created by Special Collections can be found at <http://library.uncg.edu/depts/speccoll/exhibits/Blake/>
